Heart switch delayed

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

Romulus heart patient Charles (Chuck) Sprinkle has arrived in Pittsburgh for a potential artificial heart installation, but the procedure has been delayed until after the Memorial Day holidays.

Sprinkle, his wife, Patricia, and daughter, Stacey, are currently at the Presbyterian University Hospital in Pittsburgh, awaiting a decision on the heart transplant.

A Sprinkle family spokesman said she heard the delay was attributed to a decision to await the possibility of a live heart via a vehicular or other type accident case across the Midwest next weekend.

Sprinkle is now No. 1 on the heart transplant list in six states, including Michigan.

Sprinkle, a former General Motors employee, was retired early for health reasons more than 15 years ago.

His wife currently is a school bus driver for the hearing impaired in the Romulus School District.

Prior to being flown to Pittsburgh, Sprinkle spent more than 60 days on the balloon heart pump machine at Beaumont Hospital.

Jail costs trimmed

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

Spurred on by the cry that the trust and good faith of the taxpayers has been grossly abused, the Wayne County Commissioners voted unanimously last Thursday to limit the inmates at the county's jail facility in Hamtramck to those accused of misdemeanors.

In addition the cost of housing inmates, who have failed to pay civil fines, will be lowered to $30 for local municipalities rather than the current $55.

The ordinance's sponsor 14th District Commissioner William J. O'Neil complained that the Hamtramck jail millage effort was sold to the county's taxpayers back in 1988 on the promise that the jail would be used to house up to 360 persons charged and convicted of misdemeanors and in some limited cases felony property offenders.

Befriended by Focus Hope employees Kathy Young (at left) and Margaret Celles (at right), 74-year-old and longtime Inkster resident Mary Danielian has vowed to fight any attempts by the city to evict her from her house on Arcola Street where she cares for of three ill brothers. Court battle Area family fights eviction together

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

No one is going to separate Mary Danielian from her three brothers.

And no one is going to kick Danielian and her brothers - Howard, 67; Anthony, 70; and Alfred Gillenkirk, 71, out of their modest house on Arcola Street, located in the northwest quadrant of the city of Inkster.

"We're family. We're going to stay together - no matter what," vows the 74-year-old Danielian, a widow of a World War II veteran who died in 1983. "My brothers are sick. They need me. No one will take care of them like I will. I won't let them take them away from me."

City officials have unsuccessfully attempted to evict the family. According to City Manager Margie C. Rose, Danielian and the Gillenkirks owe the city and Wayne County approximately $13,550 in back taxes. It could be more when penalties and interest, special assessments, unpaid water bills and miscellaneous charges are added.

Published reports had indicated the family was in default $311 in taxes.

While a court battle continues in hopes of resolving the problem, neighbors, community agencies and friends of the family have rallied in their support.

At least one employee at Focus Hope, a community service agency that provides food and services for the needy, has "adopted" Danielian and her brothers.

"It just doesn't make any sense to take this family out of this house," said Margaret Celles, of Focus Hope, who frequently visits the home to see if "Mary needs any help."

"It's just not right. I have asked our congresswoman, the state lawmakers and our local elected officials to help solve this problem. The say that they will help, but don't do a thing. No one seems to want to help her. It's ridiculous."

Calles went on to say that if the city is successful and the family is made homeless, "Do you know what it would cost the state or the federal government to place these people in a homeless shelter, to provide food and medical care for them? It's astronomical. This is a typical case of why people don't believe in their government."

Romulus schools could lose $500,000 in aid

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

The Romulus School District was informed only last week that it could lose between $300,000 and $500,000 in its June state school aid payment, pending a Michigan Supreme Court decision on a state retirement funding issue.

An angry Assistant Superintendent of Schools Joel Carr complained that $530 million in pre-funding dollars for the Public School Employees Retirement System (PSERS) had been set up in the past.

The state has burned up all but $139.5 million of those pre-funding dollars, Carr said, and is involved in a current battle in the state's top court known as Musselman versus Engler.

The court battle is over whether the state should be allowed to use the retirement funds for other needs.

The problem was outlined in a letter sent to school superintendents across the state by Robert E. Schiller, state superintendent of public instruction, and Mark A. Murray, acting director of the state Department of Management and Budget.

The letter said if the court blocks the state from using the retirement funds to pay current school aid money, the various school districts will face a 20-25 percent cut in their June aid allotment.

Carr said the announcement last week in Lansing sent an angry tremor through the room of several hundred statewide school executives, who questioned why the state had waited so long for such a public statement.

The Romulus School District has been working on a program to eliminate about $2 million in potential red ink since last year and this action could seriously hurt the success of that effort.

Carr said Murray gave the first word of the potential aid cutback at the two-day seminar last week.

He described Murray's attitude as very arrogant and complained that Murray never answered his (Carr's) question as to how he (Murray) was really trying to help school districts survive current financial crises.

"He (Murray) danced around many of our queries," Carr said, "and left most school superintendents totally frustrated and angry."

In the meantime, Carr said, the Romulus School District hopes that a current bill in the

Schuette guilty of embezzlement

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

A Wayne County Recorder's Court jury deliberated for three partial days last week before finding former 34th District Court Administrator Nancy Schuette guilty of only one count of embezzlement last Thursday.

The jury spokesperson said her peers were unable to reach a verdict on the other two embezzlement charges.

Her attorney, Marvin Blake, continues to insist that he feels Schuette is innocent, expressed disappointment with the verdict and urged her to file an appeal of her conviction.

Meanwhile Schuette, 41, of Belleville, who took the stand to deny allegations against her, will be sentenced on June 7 by Recorder's Court Judge Craig Strong. She faces up to 10 years in prison and a possible $5,000 fine.

Blake said the jury deliberated from about 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Monday through Wednesday. He was informed mid-morning on Thursday that the jury had reached a decision.

Chris DeWitt, a spokesperson for the state, reported State Attorney General Frank J. Kelley is pleased with the jury's verdict and felt that Assistant Attorney General Mark E. Blumer presented a strong case against the veteran court administrator.

The state contended that through a systematic series of illegal financial voids, Schuette embezzled cash from the 34th District Court's funds over several years.

An audit of court records shows that up to $270,000 disappeared from court financial books over a period of years, but the attorney general's office charged Schuette with being responsible for only a fraction of that loss.

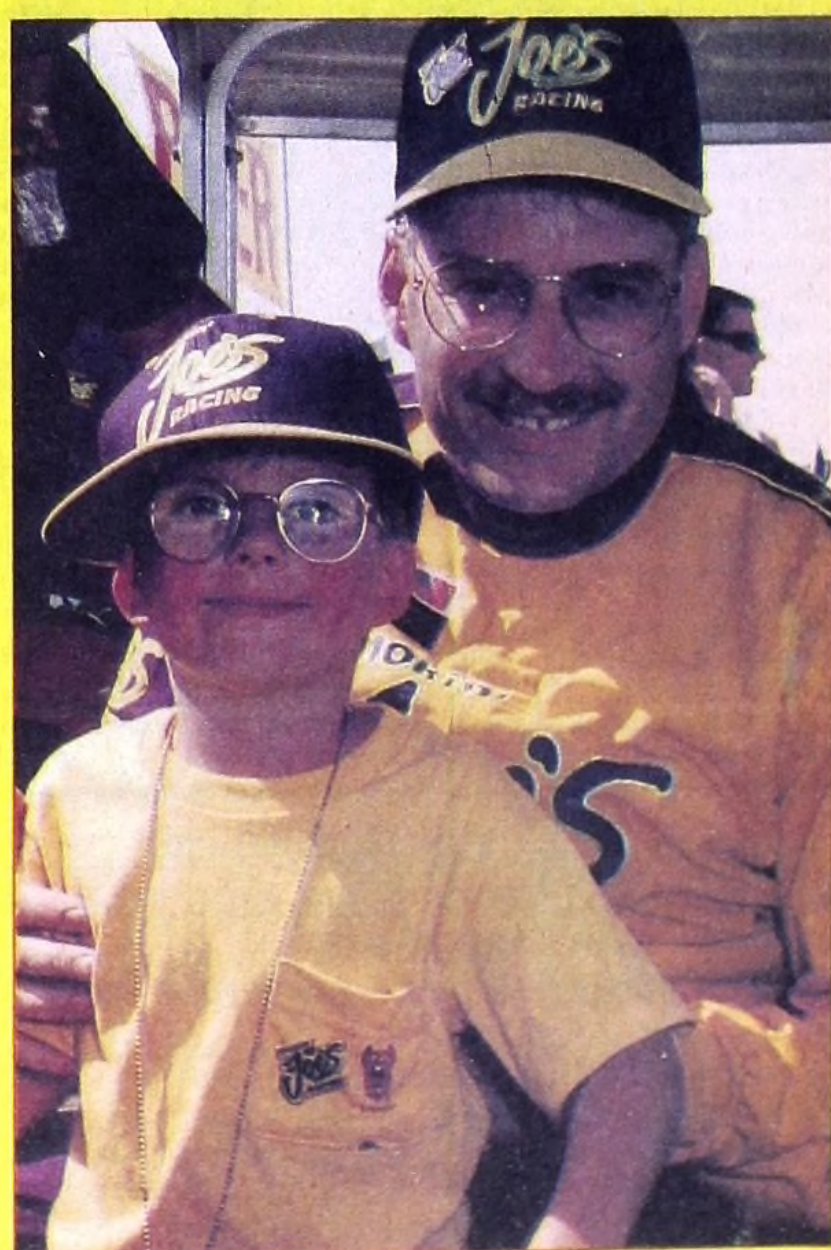

Schuette was placed on leave early in 1993, while the Michigan Supreme Court and State Police probed court records and Schuette's personal bank account.

The state provided witnesses that funds disappeared from the court on various dates and almost similar amounts (minus several hundred dollars each time) appeared in Schuette's personal account days later.

Schuette was allowed to resign months later, a short time before criminal charges were pressed against her.

Over 100 bookkeeping changes were recommended by the top court and were placed into effect by short-term administrator Michael Ramsey.

Ramsey, who resigned suddenly earlier this year, has been replaced by a team of three veteran women court employees.

ROMULUS NEWS DIGEST

Ballot machines sold to Taylor

More than 50 vintage black election machines, some dating as far back as the 1930s, were sold by Romulus to Taylor recently for $500, Romulus City Clerk Linda Choate revealed Friday.

The 900-pound voting machines have become a storage problem for the city, following the purchase of new computerized election devices last year.

Taylor has purchased the machines, 40 of which are still in working order, to help it through the next few years, Choate said.

Taylor has not yet switched to the computerized voting style yet, but reportedly is ready to study the option.

3 more candidates file for election

Mayor Beverly McAnally, incumbent City Councilman William Wadsworth and challenger Debby Romak have filed to be on the 1995 city ballot, a spokeswoman for the city clerk's office said Friday.

To date no one has filed to oppose McAnally. The mayor has run unopposed for the last three elections.

At least 15 persons reportedly have taken out petitions for city council seats. If all turn them in, a city primary will be conducted this summer.

Wadsworth is the second council incumbent to file. The first was rookie Councilman Michael Prybyla, who finished in a tie the first time he ran in 1993.

The deadline for filing for the city election is June 20.

Memorial service planned Sunday

A Memorial Day style service will be conducted at noon Sunday weather permitting at the Romulus Veterans Memorial Monument on Wayne Road, near City Hall.

Circus tickets now available

Advance ticket sale locations for the June 26 circus shows have been unveiled by the Greater Romulus Chamber of Commerce.

The locations include: City Hall, School Administration Office, Chamber of Commerce, Romulus Hardware, Romulus IGA, Romulus Recreation Department, Sister Act Deli and Catering, Kozy Korner Restaurant, First of America Bank, Family Pharmacy, Dave and Company Hair Salon, Comerica Bank and Captain Nemo's Sub Shop.

Advance tickets cost $5, while same day tickets will cost $7, former Chamber president Mark Lewkowicz said. The two shows will be offered at 4:30 and 7 p.m. at Senior Citizen Park. A petting zoo opens at 3:30 p.m.

Aid

state legislature that would provide an extension of enhancement millage will be passed and signed by Gov. John Engler.

Such an enhanced millage plan currently runs out in Romulus in 1997, Carr said, and without an extension (or some other financial changes statewide) the district will face additional major financial woes.

Since many other school districts are facing the same pinch as Romulus, Carr said, he feels Murray's action last week could line up heavy support for the enhanced millage extension.

Carr said Murray gave no specific time when the state would make the announcement on whether the cuts would indeed occur. But the next state aid check is due June 20.

Carr said another problem facing Romulus Schools is that the state has said it will cut state funding $13 per pupil next school year (which would amount to about a loss of $50,000 to the district).

Historic home slated for June '95 relocation

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

About 100 persons, some wearing 19th Century dresses and formal wear, gathered Saturday to witness the groundbreaking ceremonies for two historical Romulus homes: the Samuel R. Kingsley and the Peter C. Bird houses.

City Community Development Director Jane Downing told the group that efforts to move the Kingsley house will begin June 6 and hopefully it will climax on June 27. The date for moving the Bird house is still being negotiated with Wayne County.

Both Dowling and Mayor Beverly McAnally reminded community residents the housing projects will take several years to complete, as the Romulus Historical Society plans to furnish them with period furniture and decor.

Full histories of both homes will be released to the press after the homes are in place, a historical society spokesperson said.

The Kingsley home dates back to the 1850s, when Samuel R. Kingsley and his wife, Polly, and eight children resided there.

Kingsley worked in the mercantile business for 15 years and later served as area postmaster for 19 years. The Victorian style home complete with indented porches was turned over to the city by its last owners, Eugene and Sylvia Perecki.

Block grant monies were obtained by the city's Historical Commission and will be used to move it to the Romulus Historical Park area (near the current Romulus Post Office.)

The second home was owned by former Romulus banker Peter C. Bird and dates back to the late 1870s. Bird and his wife, Mary Jane (Morris) reared nine children in the home.

Bird was wounded the first day of the Battle of Gettysburg during the Civil War and actually was helped off the battlefield by his brother, Robert.

It is hoped that this home too will be deeded over to the city by Wayne County and that funds will be donated for its move.

Genevieve Dugan, a historical society member, served as mistress of ceremonies and Historical Society President Pearl Varner offered the official welcome at the sun-filled afternoon program.

Rev. Alvin Burton, a society member, offered the invocation, and the historical backgrounds on the homes were offered by Treva Rivest and Terrell Bird, also society members.

McAnally revealed like most worthwhile projects, this ground breaking began with a vision, which led to Saturday's event which she called the next small steps.

The continuing efforts, McAnally assured the participants, will create a treasure that the community can enjoy for years to come.

Mayor pro tem Mary Ann Banks thanked those whose dedication and perseverance showed that Romulus citizens don't give up, despite roadblocks thrown in their way.

Congresswoman Lynn Rivers said she sees memorials to many great Americans every day she is in Washington D.C. But she said America needs memorials for the common people too as is evidenced here in historical park.

Gloria Chandler, society treasurer, was on hand also to remind the public that ongoing supplies of money, labor and materials will be needed in future years to complete their restoration.

Commander Ted Bouzounis of the Romulus American Legion Post 23 was on hand to raise and retire the colors.

Students remove graffiti

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

For the second time this school year, 20 or more Romulus High School students took time out to paint over some of the worst gang graffiti spots within the city.

According to Youth Police Officer Rosemary Cooper about 20 high school students gathered last week at the side of Double Bogie Lounge at 6221 Middlebelt Road to begin their first project of the day.

They later traveled to a storage building in the Royal Village Trailer Court on Airborne road, the R. J. Party Store at Michelle and Wayne roads and four viaducts within the city.

Romulus High School senior Kriss Gagnon helped coordinate the student involvement. Many of the youth taking part this time were from the Leadership Program at the school, she said.

"We were pleased as people drove by beeping their horns in encouragement," she said, "and we plan to do it again when the need arises after we graduate."

The owners of the Double Bogie provided the youths with a free lunch, Cooper said. In addition the paints were donated by various area store operators including Tony Kopas of Romulus Hardware, Mark Brown of Builders Square of Southgate, Kathy Stears of Stears True Hardware Store of Romulus, Pat Brougham of Aco Hardware of Belleville, Ron Mauter of Sherwin Williams of Southgate, Joe Peters of Home Quarters of Southgate and Ralph Newkirk of Aco Hardware of Ypsilanti.

Students get fired up on field trip

Scores of Romulus School District students were given a tour of the local fire headquarters recently as a prelude to Arson Awareness Week.

Both the Romulus City Council and Gov. John Engler provided resolutions in connection with the arson prevention effort.

Engler's declaration stated "arson is a serious crime that affects us all and can only be stopped when we realize the severe damage it causes to our state and individual communities."

"These fires erode the tax base and cause a severe loss to our cities, villages and neighborhoods and can destroy property and the security of employment," Engler's statement continued.

"Arson fires can also disrupt our educational systems, destroy irreplaceable historical buildings and artifacts, render natural resources useless for long periods of time and inflict countless human deaths and injuries," the governor added.

Thus Engler concluded "it is fitting to commend the Michigan Arson Prevention for its efforts to combat the arson problem through educational and public information programs."

Romulus Fire Chief William Greenslait reminded students and other members of the public "almost one in every five fires in Michigan is an arson or suspicious blaze."

Greenslait warned that arson fires also cause many deaths and serious injuries in Michigan, and the cost of the fires themselves to the public is in excess of $100 million in fire losses.

But citizens can fight back, Greenslait said, by reporting arson and suspicious fires to their local police and fire officials.

There is a statewide program that pays up to $5,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of arsonists, the chief said.

The Michigan Arson Prevention Committee, founded in 1973, coordinates the attack on arson through education and training of arson investigators, police and fire officials and insurance industry representatives as well as the administration of the arson reward program.

But that promise was broken, O'Neil charged, and today many of the inmates are felons accused and convicted of crimes against persons. The new provisions are to go into effect on June 1.

Only a week before when O'Neil appeared before Western Wayne County community leaders, he was asked what would be done with the felons currently housed at the Hamtramck jail if the ordinance was passed.

O'Neil said bluntly that was the state's problem. If need be they should be placed outside the door of Gov. John Engler, he said.

In his emotional battle to regain trust of taxpayers on this issue, O'Neil said "most Wayne County misdemeanants are housed in jails outside of Wayne County and the entire cost of incarceration is being borne by Wayne County cities and townships."

Than to add insult to injury, when such Wayne County misdemeanants are sent to the Hamtramck facility, the local community is charged a per diem rate of $55, a figure significantly higher than the rate charged by jails outside of Wayne County.

This practice O'Neil says has cost communities within the county millions of dollars since 1988.

In effect the taxpayers have been paying twice, the 1 mill property tax increase, in addition to the cost of the per diem being paid by local governments to house the misdemeanants, O'Neil continued.

Another portion of the new ordinance states that inmates sentenced under Michigan statutes will be held by Wayne County without cost to the sentencing court unit.

Two items, a gruesome death and a miracle birth were all over the news last week. Both made a big impression on me, particularly since I witnessed the two separate occurrences.

The birth I speak of is that of Alana Pullins, the 4-1/2 pound healthy baby delivered by Hodgkins inflicted Loretta Pullins.

Michigan Community Newspapers adopted Loretta and her determination to see her pregnancy through several weeks ago. News Editor Margo Dewey took her shopping and hosted a community-wide baby shower at which the Wayne-Westland community gave her a room full of baby gifts.

What made the situation so unique was that doctors had little hope that Loretta would live to see her baby. Her condition had deteriorated rapidly and her refusal to take radiation treatment because it might hurt the baby, only exasperated the situation.

Miracles do happen, however, and as television stations and daily newspapers chronicled with top story coverage, all was well with the birth. Now the attention turns to Loretta. Now that she has begun radiation treatments will she be able to beat the dreaded cancer beast? It's a waiting game, says Loretta, who wants more than anything to raise her daughter.

It was also a waiting game for the family of Jimmy Garcia. Unfortunately their wait ended in death.

Garcia was a championship boxer from Colombia. He entered the boxing ring a couple of weeks ago in Las Vegas against IBF featherweight champion Gabriel Ruelas. My wife and I and 15,000 spectators watched as Ruelas pummelled Garcia round after round after round. Not once did Garcia fall to the canvas despite taking a tremendous beating. When the fight was called and Garcia went to his corner, the championship hopeful collapsed to the floor. He couldn't be revived and was taken from the ring on a stretcher.

A couple of days later the news told us that Garcia was in a coma. A brain clot had been operated on, but Garcia was not recovering.

Ruelas and his wife visited Garcia often in the hospital. Garcia's mother, at first, would not speak to the champion, but after a couple of visits she began to warm up to the polite couple from Los Angeles. When it was announced Jimmy had died, his mother grabbed Ruelas and in Spanish, said now you are it. Jimmy wanted so bad to be champion. Now you are the champion and we will live Jimmy's dream through you.

Life can be so fragile. Dreams can also be just as fragile, but sometimes people just refuse to let them die. A 21-year-old fighter dies, but his mother refused to let his dream go with him. A mother gives birth despite incredible odds against her. Two people, two very different circumstances, but both paying homage to the dreams life is made of.

Con artists reveal no favoritism in victims

It appears that there is no class distinction among the victims of con artists.

At the same time that local police officials are warning residents to be wary of traveling con artists who prey on the poor, elderly and infirm, we learn that an elaborate pyramid scheme has bilked the Detroit Institute of Arts and several non-profit educational entities out of millions of dollars.

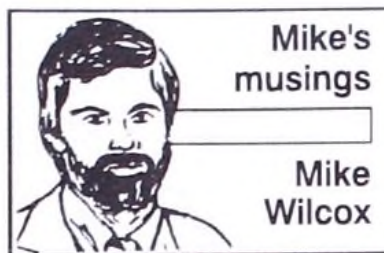

The investment plan, which is reminiscent of the Ponzi pyramid schemes, promised investors that their money would be doubled by "anonymous philanthropists" who would match their investments - dollar for dollar.

It sounds too good to be true, and it was.

Western Wayne County chiefs of police have issued the same warning to residents for the past decade, "If it sounds too good to be true, it isn't."

They remind residents again this spring that the traveling con artists are back in the area with their old schemes and a few new ones. They are ready to offer roofing jobs, asphalt driveways, home repairs and a myriad of services, all at prices that are too good to be true.

Mike's musings

High speed policy questioned

To the editor:

On January 14, 1993, two men attempted to rob a party store in Belleville with a shotgun.

While they were not able to acquire any money from the owner, they knew that a quick getaway was necessary. A description of the car was broadcast over the police band and shortly thereafter, a young Van Buren Township officer engaged the two suspects in a high-speed pursuit. This pursuit, which at some point reached at least 88 mph., took place at approximately noon on a Thursday and progressed eastward on Ecorse Road.

At the intersection of Ecorse and Wayne Roads, the suspect car served left on the center lane (through a red light) and into the intersection. The suspect car struck a blue Chevrolet pickup truck, which exploded on impact, killing Reva and John Brady of Romulus. Reva and John were my mother and brother and I am writing this letter on their behalf.

On May 16, 1995, the last of two murder trials concluded with the conviction of Ramon Orza Davis. His partner, Kenneth Karl Williams, was convicted in November of 1993 on two counts of felony 1st degree murder, assault with intent to rob while armed and felony firearm possession. Ramon Davis was also convicted of the very same offenses and awaits sentencing.

On March 27, 1995, the mayor sent me a copy of the city's policy as it pertains to roadblocks, and it confirmed what I had been told. The communication was from Lt. Daryl Poe, acting police chief, and begins with, "The use of roadblocks as a tactic to stop high speed chases is generally discouraged." He goes on further to state that roadblocks are difficult to coordinate in the limited time involved in a pursuit situation. He also contends that an appropriate location to set up a roadblock cannot be found in this usually short time period. The chief elaborates that, "Suspects involved in high speed chases will often take extremely hazardous evasive actions to avoid a roadblock and will thereby endanger not only themselves, but also the officers manning the roadblock and any civilian motorist and pedestrians who may be in the area."

The purpose of my letter is not to demean or attempt to embarrass any of our city officials, but something is clearly lacking here folks.

Our city has quite a comprehensive police pursuit policy, one which the Van Buren Township police department should implement. My family's gripe has nothing to do with the Romulus police chase policy (although we are of the opinion that police chases endanger many more people than they are trying to protect), but with the city's view of what constitutes lethal force. When a car is screaming down a crowded residential highway at 12 noon on a Thursday at speeds approaching 90 mph., does that not qualify as lethal force? Considering the weight of the car (let us say 2,000 lbs., plus) is adding additional g-forces to the impact, coupled with that 90 mph. rate of speed, you have one of the most readily available lethal forces that one could imagine. If you want to see the end result of such lethal force, just go over to Crova's lot on Grand Road and look along the north fence. That crumpled heap that is sitting there is all that remains of my family. I shudder to think what must have been occurring inside that truck at the point of impact.

The point here is that maybe roadblocks are not the answer, I was merely making a suggestion to the City Council that this city adopt some form of defensive posture when there is adequate time to avert a possible tragedy.

I believe that we are sending the wrong signal to potential felons that Romulus affords an escape route because they will not encounter any defensive measures from our police department. This city has two major expressways running through it and could be viewed as an extremely attractive avenue for such an escape.

On behalf of Reva and John Brady, I implore the City Council to inquire about the technology that exists to deter criminals and defend this city. Maybe this technology would not have saved the lives of my mother and brother, but it may save the life of someone dearest to you. At the present moment, the fate which my mother and brother suffered could happen to any one of us at any time.

Miracle baby

Westland woman survives birth, fights cancer

By MARGO DEWEY
MCN News Editor

Church congregations throughout the state prayed for her. Businesses organized fund-raisers for her. Friends and family members showed their support.

Miracles do happen, just ask Loretta Pullins.

The Wayne Memorial High School graduate who is afflicted with Hodgkins (stage two), recently become the mother of Alana Kieren Pullins, 4 pounds, 10 ounces.

It was a life and death battle for both mother and child, but now half the waiting game is over. Alana is a healthy little girl with just a slight respiratory problem she is quickly overcoming at the Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit.

Pullins was taken to Henry Ford May 16 where her doctors induced labor. She dealt with labor pains for more than 12 hours.

"It was tough, but I managed," said Pullins. "I was able to have it naturally."

Pullins own mother, Judy

I just wanted to make sure that my daughter had something to remember me by.
- Loretta Pullins

Pullins, stayed with her daughter from the time she entered the delivery room until her new granddaughter was born.

"It was a wonderful experience," said her mother. "I have never seen a baby born before, and to have it be my own daughter having her daughter, it can't get any better than that."

Pullins, however, has one more obstacle to battle. Before Alana was born, Pullins found out she had cancer two months into her pregnancy.

She had a choice to either have an abortion and begin chemotherapy right away to save her own life or take a chance and wait until the birth of her baby before treating the cancer.

"There was no question that I wanted this baby," said Pullins. "Now that it's all over,

I know I made the right decision."

Approximately 10 days before the baby was born, Pullins began taking radiation treatment to reduce the various masses of cancer that had formed within her body.

She was also reduced to drinking liquids for her food consumption because the radiation treatment made it difficult to swallow any solid food.

"My throat was very sore, and I could only have liquids or ice cream," said Pullins.

Keeping the weight on was also another factor for Pullins during her pregnancy. She was nearly 60 pounds underweight for a pregnant mother.

"I just couldn't keep the weight on," said Pullins. "I had to force myself to eat. It was hard to eat one meal a day." The radiation did stop the growth of the cancer in time for Pullins to have her baby. Now the waiting game begins for the chemotherapy treatment to take its course.

"At least I know that she's (Alana) alright," said Pullins. "I just have to keep up the faith so I can get through this."

More than anything, Pullins would like to be able to raise her own daughter. She is expected to return home sometime next week once the chemotherapy treatment is completed.

It will be a homecoming both mother and daughter have waited for a long time.

"She's (Alana) a little piece of heaven," said Pullins.

All the media attention didn't bother Pullins or her daughter. In fact, Pullins welcomed the press throughout her pregnancy and at the birth of her daughter.

"I just wanted to make sure that my daughter had something to remember me by," Pullins said. "This way she can't forget that she is very special."

Eviction

brothers apparently lost the property because of delinquent taxes in the early 1990s.

According to city officials, in October of 1992, the city received the property from the state for nonpayment of prior years taxes. Danielian and the Gillenkirk were informed by letter in December, 1992 that the city had acquired the property from the state.

Rose said that the city had offered to sell the property back to the family in February of 1993, for back taxes totaling $13,500. Due to the Danielian/Gillenkirk failure to pay the back taxes, the city denied the sale of property.

Danielian said that she attempted to pay the taxes, but that the city refused to take her money.

"I walked to the City Hall with my Social Security checks to pay those taxes," Danielian said. "They refused to take my money."

The city obtained an eviction order from the 22nd District Court and that order was to be executed earlier this month. However, attorneys for Danielian managed to get a stay.

Kathy Young, also of Focus Hope, said that the organization, heard about the family's plight several months ago when Danielian's story broke in The Ledger Star and "we sort of adopted them."

"But we also got involved because we wanted to show that Focus Hope is more than a food-distributing program. We are a people-helping program, and this family definitely needs help and support to stay together," she said.

A score of residents in the Arcola Street area have also rallied around Danielian and have urged the city to reconsider.

"We used to call them the 'Indian Family' because they walked single-file wherever they went," said Emogene Averip, a nurse who has lived in the neighborhood since 1949. "Then we realized that they were brought up in a Catholic school environment, and that is what they were taught to do."

"Most of us in this neighborhood know the family. They never bother anyone. They keep their property and grass well-groomed. Sure, it's not much, but it's a home for them."

"In the spring, one of the brothers tends to a garden and gives his vegetables to anyone who will have them. It's a shame to see what is happening to them. We will do anything to help them."

thing to help them.

"Believe me, there are a lot of people around here who are angry over that eviction notice. City Hall will be hearing from us."

At least one city official paid Danielian a visit last week and came away satisfied that she is capable of caring for herself and brothers.

"I think this has gone too far. I am going to sit down with my colleagues and see if we can come up with some sort of compromise. This woman should be commended for what she is doing, not held in contempt."

Patrick Murray, who has been representing Danielian and the Gillenkirk's interest in this case, said that he has been attempting to resolve the issue without further litigation and his efforts have been frustrating at times.

Murray, who is with the Wayne County Neighborhood Legal Services, offered a letter to Danielian from the City Clerk's Office, signed by City Clerk Delphine G. Oden, as evidence of the futility he has encountered.

The letter stated that "at a regular council meeting held April 5, 1993, the City of Inkster Council denied your (Danielian's) offer to repurchase tax reverted property commonly known as 378 Arcola for $13,550."

Again, we join law enforcement officers in urging residents to check into the background of companies or individuals with whom they plan to do business.

Find out if the company is licensed to do business in the area and if its workmen are qualified, talk to previous customers and check to see if the local Chamber of Commerce or Better Business Bureau has complaints filed against them.

Remember, whether you are a trustee of a multi-million dollar institution or the owner of a modest home, there is someone out there ready to offer you a deal that is too good to be true and isn't.

mas with parades every year. On other special occasions we paraded through town. We often traveled to neighboring town to share in their parades.

Of all the various units in any of the parades, the ones I liked the most were the military units. Since an Army post was nearby, most parades included units stationed at this post. We had a local National Guard unit that proudly displayed for us. I eagerly awaited the uniformed units marching to the music of local bands. How much these parades influences me in deciding to enlist cannot me easily ascertained.

I enlisted in the Navy and proudly served for six years. I served during the Vietnam War and served on a destroyer while stationed in the Tonkin Gulf. I wore my uniform proudly, and still do. I am a chaplain in the Navy Reserve, though not in a drill status. I am a member of the local chapter of the Veterans of the Vietnam War, as well as several other groups.

On May 20 we celebrate Armed Forces Day and then on May 29 Memorial Day. Several communities have planned special programs and parades on these days. Many veterans groups have adopted the camouflage utility uniform of the military as the official uniform of the group. Military units also parade in these uniforms. Much to their shame, other people have adopted our uniform as their uniform. I am speaking of the so called patriots, those who rant and rave about our country being taken over the United Nations, etc.

When you see a group of people wearing camouflage uniforms do not be hasty to condemn them. They may very well be those who fought in order for these shortsighted people to have the freedom to express their poisoned views. Should we refrain from wearing these uniforms? Should veterans hide their pride? Should a few close minded fanatics cause the rest of us to put away the uniform of real patriots? I think not!!

Thanks to writer

To the editor:

We really appreciate the great article about our business in your April 27 edition written by Margo Dewey.

As she reported, we have been in business over five years and plan to be in Wayne many more years. Our family has been around Wayne since 1955 and we see so many familiar faces. Wayne has retained so much of the small town atmosphere even with so many changes such as Michigan Avenue.

Again, thank you.

Historic homes, dope house stir controversy

Readers of Michigan Community Newspapers are invited to submit their criticisms or comments to the Sound-Off line on topics of general interest.

The following comments were directed at the Sound-Off 729-4006 line last week:

I would like to know how the Westland Police Department can ignore an obvious dope house on a major highway that they pass every day. They must be blind or do they look the other way?

I would like to sound-off in regard to the Romulus Historical Society. I don't know where they get their funding, but hopefully not from my taxes. The article on the renovation of that home on Huron River Drive, next to the bowling alley, is totally ludicrous. It is a piece of junk. I don't care who lived there. Now the home over in Wayne - I can see why that one would be renovated. That is a nice home. If the Romulus Historical Society cannot find a better way to spend its money, then I feel sorry for them.

Comments on any subject of general interest may be called to Sound-Off 729-4006 between 5 p.m. and 8 a.m. weekdays and at any time during the weekends.

Sierra Aces featured in Wayne Air Show

The three-plane Sierra Aces aerobatic team bring their fast-paced, dynamic aerobatic routines to the 1995 Air Michigan - Wayne County Air Show, June 3 and 4 at Willow Run Airport.

The team performs precision formation, opposing and separate maneuvers in unison, as well as exciting snap, torque and clover rolls, tail slides, loops, and the ace of hearts, all ranging in speeds from midair stand still to 200 m.p.h.

The pilots use red, white, and blue Pitts S-2B aircraft, powered with 260 horsepower fuel injected engines, equipped with inverted fuel and oil systems. The aerodynamic design with symmetrical airfoils, four ailerons and high power to weight ratio make the aircraft able to perform unlimited maneuvers with precision maneuverability and utmost safety.

Sierra Aces aerobatic team owner and lead pilot, Steve Brower, has accumulated over 15,000 flight hours ranging from light aircraft to the Boeing 747.

Pursuing aviation at a young age, his first solo flight was at age 16. After serving in the U.S. Marine Corps, Bower flew as a corporate pilot to points around the world, as well as flying in aerobatic competition.

George "Buzz" Lynch, flying left wing, has a distinguished career as a U.S. Air Force fighter and test pilot. As a "Golden Arm," he participated in aircraft and missile development. After a tour in Vietnam as an F-4 pilot, he directed the A-9 versus A-10 fighter competition, being the first pilot to fly the A-10 "Tank Buster".

Flying right wing is Bert Nelson, a former U.S. Air Force Thunderbird pilot with over 5,000 hours of flying time. Having flown for over 20 years, Nelson has logged time in T-38s, F-4s, F-16s, and many civilian-type aircraft. Currently, he is a pilot for a major U.S. airline and is a major in the U.S. Air Force Reserves.

'Fair is Fair'

To the editor:

The vote on the June 12 Wayne-Westland school millage increase is simple. The vote is no.

The Wayne-Westland teachers union recently voted to "freeze" their bloated salaries for this year and next. They were praised for this alleged "sacrifice."

Accordingly, the taxpayers should vote to freeze taxes for this year and next. Fair is fair.

If the voters keep approving more and greater millages—the school board will never learn to live within their budget. Why should they?

The Wayne-Westland schools are not impoverished. In fact, they have spent wildly over the years -- increasing teacher and other salaries to now unsustainable levels.

There is no doubt that the Wayne-Westland schools are deeply troubled. But, bloated salaries and busted budgets are only part of the problem. The district also has an appalling double digit drop out rate. And district Michigan Education Assessment Program (MEAP) scores are truly pitiful. But these are not "money problems." These are "management problems." No amount of money can "cure" bad management.

So, wake up parents! What's needed is not new taxes, but a completely new school board. You know it. And I know it. Let's do something about it, because the situation is going to get a lot worse before it gets better.

Dumbing down?

To the editor:

Recent statistics released by the Michigan Department of Education indicate the vast majority of our school districts failed to achieve the highest accreditation standards based upon objective data from the Michigan assessment tests.

Why is this the case? Why are reading, writing, and basic math skills declining so rapidly?

Quality teaching is being replaced by an over reliance on computers, calculators, and television. Students are being indoctrinated with political correctness, and psychobabble about self-esteem has destroyed the concept of competition in our schools.

Traditional values have been replaced by behavioral objectives designed to create mindless robots who will march like lemmings to the sea without a clue as to why they are missing the boat. If this trend continues our education system will become one giant asthma case gasping for air in the rising tide of ooze leading to the dumbing down of America!

Job story faulted

To the editor:

It is a good thing that your Eyewitness is a special edition, not distributed with subscriptions. I would be offended at the quality of writing and coverage if it came with a regular subscription to my home.

I am particularly disturbed about your article titled "Thanks to Lousy Schools, These Graduated Can't Find Jobs". Your claims were particularly ludicrous to me, after recently sitting through University of Michigan graduation exercises, watching former Belleville High School graduates finish U of M with high honors, in the top 10 percent of their engineering classes.

My own children graduated from Belleville schools, are in college or graduating from college. Our youngest is graduating from Plymouth Canton Schools.

What children do with their education is a function of their own motivation, opportunity, and parental support. This has not changed over time.

The fact is that the bottom 20 percent of any class in history has not been well prepared for jobs, but not because schools have failed. In the '30s and '40s students didn't finish school, learning jobs on the land or in factories by experience. In the '50s and '60s, more graduated from school, but found work, learning by experience in factories.

In the 1970s and 1980s even more high school graduates began post graduate training, while some found their way to factories. In the 1990s schools are beginning to change education through the School to Work programs. In every decade, it was and is up to students to seek out more education in high school and past high school, and present attitudes conducive to work. Schools are reflections of society. If "schools are lousy", then society is "lousy".

You as journalists have a job that goes beyond pointing the finger at what's wrong. You should be printing articles that present the positive sides of schools—there are indeed many—helping readers to continue to be motivated to solve problems by looking at themselves and government participation. Feeding distrust of government and schools as part of government is extremely dangerous, in my mind, because it sets the stage for either of two things—anarchy or the "world government" that you claim to decry. I, for one, expect leaders in the community to stop feeding distrust created when half-truths are printed without thorough investigation. The following are half-truths presented in this article:

1. Plymouth Canton increased graduation requirements before other schools did. Belleville increased their requirements long ago.

2. All graduates are not ready for employment, lacking basic computation and writing skill for employment. Those students most skilled don't want to apply for minimum wage jobs that you refer to in your articles.

3. Belleville schools are banking all their education efforts on computers. Computers are a small part of education, but a needed part. The computer component of the bond proposal being planned now, are a minor part of the total package and definitely a small part of education children will receive in a school day.

4. Students have no goals. Perhaps those few you interviewed have no goals. I hardly think that five students represent society or a community.

5. Reading is not constructing. Obviously, phonics and constructing meaning go hand in hand. Comprehension is important.

In addition, at millage time for schools, stop inaccurate reporting.

Explorer ranks high in style, 'creature comforts'

By JUSTIN WILCOX
MCN Automotive Writer

The word "explorer" describes someone or something who travels in search of geographical or scientific information.

Ford has seemed to redefine the word. Now the word "explorer" describes an on-road vehicle designed to look like an off-road vehicle.

The 1995 Explorer Expedition edition that I tested certainly looked like a serious off-road vehicle, but I soon found out that it is meant for a totally different audience.

This vehicle is meant to have its four-wheel drive system engaged maybe twice a year, when the conditions get extremely poor. It does not have enough ground clearance, partially due to its stylish running boards, to go where no one has gone before.

What it lacks in off-road prowess, it makes up for in creature comforts. My tester priced out at just under thirty thousand dollars and was equipped with everything but the kitchen sink.

Air conditioning, power windows and locks, dual remote mirrors, a CD player with a unique changer located in the center console, anti-lock brakes and of course four wheel drive. The rear seat passengers receive separate heater controls and headphone ports with separate volume controls to listen to their favorite music.

The 1995 Explorer sports an aerodynamic look, with a sloping hood and new fenders, bumper, headlights and grille. Redesigned bodyside moldings and taillights round out the new look. Also new is a choice of 15-inch cast aluminum or 16-inch chrome steel wheels.

In addition to a standard dual air bag supplemental restraint system, the 1995 Explorer offers a number of safety improvements, including four-wheel anti-lock brakes with four wheel discs. An optional integrated rear child seat is available on four-door Explorers.

The interior has an all-new instrument panel that provides increased readability and puts controls within comfortable reach. New door trim and seat styles, coupled with increased leg room, contribute to the interior.

The Explorer maintains its proven 4.0 liter V-6 for 1995.

The V-6 is adequate for city driving, but trying to accelerate on to busy expressways or traverse your way up a steep dirt incline, you will yearn for a bit more muscle under the hood.

The Explorer's off-road ride is soft and bouncy, but very adequate for a vehicle with such a short wheel base in the two door version. Where the ride suffers is on the interstate. The Explorer suffered greatly from cross winds and tended to drift a lot even without the forces of nature acting upon it. I suspect that the longer and heavier four door version would be better, but it is a serious concern considering most sport-utility owners spend 99.9 percent of their time on pavement.

The only way to analyze the Explorer is through the Beauty and the Beast line of thinking. The beauty of the vehicle is its dramatically improved new sheet metal and interior, the beastly side is its stiff price along with twitchy highway manners and lack of power.

This vehicle is nearly perfect for commuting within city boundaries, carrying groceries, the kids, and the occasional oversized gift that just would not fit in the other car. However, it is not a go anywhere vehicle that can tow a large trailer, the kids and your 10 suitcases on a camping expedition in the back woods of no man's land.

The Explorer is tailor made for a very specific audience. Those who are in the upper middle-middle class with 2.5 kids and feel that making a good appearance means a lot more than the ability to back up the look perceived.

I would buy the Explorer if I were looking for a stylish vehicle with all of the bells and whistles. I would not buy it if I needed a vehicle that looked good and needed to work every day.

So, Ford has redefined Webster's version of exploring. Don't get me wrong, the 1995 version is an impressive step forward from the previous version. Comparing the old one to the new is like comparing the Wright brothers glider to a F-18A Hornet Jet Fighter. For me, it would not be my first choice, but, who the hell am I anyway?

Belleville, Robichaud win regional track titles

Tigers are repeat champions

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Sports Editor

Sparked by junior Nate Lewis' double gold-winning performances, Belleville successfully defended its Class A regional track & field title Friday evening at Redford Union.

"It feels great," said Belleville coach George Devore, after winning his first regional championship. "We had Pioneer (Ann Arbor) at this meet, so I really didn't know what to expect. But the kids came up big."

Devore, an assistant coach a year ago, moved up a notch this year after veteran Tiger coach Dave Medley decided to step down so that he could spend more time with his family.

Pioneer is a state track and cross country powerhouse. They finished six-points off the winner's pace. Belleville garnered 64 points to Pioneer's 58 while Wayne Memorial, sans Corey McClelland, managed to finished close on the heels of the frontrunners. The Zebras compiled 52 points, good for third place.

"If we had Corey in our lineup," said Wayne Memorial coach Floyd Carter, "it may have made the difference. Corey is one of the best discus and shot-putters in the area. He may have gotten the necessary points to take us to the top."

Brothers Gunn lead Bulldogs

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

The Gunn brothers - Kenny and Travis - provided the explosive power that blasted Robichaud to the front of the pack of the Class B regional field on Friday at Ypsilanti Lincoln.

The Gunns, with Jake Bennett and Marcel Welch, gave coach Shelby Johnson's Bulldogs a first in the 3,200-meter relay, one of five Robichaud gold-medal winning performances.

Ramon Davis surfaced as the best sprinter in the field at Lincoln as the Robichaud speedster crossed the finish line for the 100-meters first, then also gave the Bulldogs a second in the 200-meter dash.

Alverson emerged from the 300-meter intermediate hurdles with a gold medal and also teamed with the Gunns and Jake Bennett to capture a gold in the 1,600-meter relay.

Robichaud is one of two local teams - the other Belleville - that will advance to the state finals with regional titles.

In the meantime, Romulus qualified five of its athletes for the Class A state finals to be staged at Saginaw.

Coach Norbert Glover said that he was satisfied with his team's overall performance, but felt that "we could have qualified one or two more people."

Romulus' 1,600-meter relay team remains the team to beat in the area.

Tigers are back in the title hunt

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Sports Editor

A seventh-inning, three-run rally lifted Belleville to a 5-4 victory over Lincoln Park and put coach John Bertz's Tigers right smack into the Mega Conference Red Division baseball title race.

But Bertz admits that his team will need some help in the form of a Monroe loss in order for his club to catch the frontrunner.

"Monroe is a game up (9-3) on us, so we are going to need some help to catch them," said Bertz. "But the way things are going this year, I feel nothing is impossible."

But everything will also be moot if Belleville should lose any of its remaining three conference games. Belleville was scheduled to play Wyandotte on Monday, take on Wayne Memorial on Wednesday before wrapping up the 1995 campaign today at Southgate Anderson. All three opponents can give the Tigers problems.

Then, after all is said and done in the conference, the Tigers will pack up their gear after the Memorial Day holiday and head for Ypsilanti to compete for a Class A District championship.

Also on the road to Ypsilanti will be Romulus, Wayne Memorial and Ann Arbor Huron.

Against, Lincoln Park, Tiger righthander Mike Kinzel got the job done. Kinzel, a junior, gave up five hits, struck out seven, walked three to lift his record to 4-3 on the season.

Loser Chad Smith also was tagged for five hits, but he fanned nine and walked only one.

In the bottom of the seventh and trailing 4-2, and after Smith retired the first two batters he faced, he allowed runners to get aboard on a fielder's choice and an error which then put Rodney Komaromi at the plate.

Komaromi drilled one down the left field line, chasing home the tying runs, and when Eric Harrison came through with a single to left field, Komaromi raced home with the winning run.

Belleville could have used some heroics earlier in the week against Garden City. They dropped a crucial 1-0 decision to the Jaguars that would have put them into a two-way tie for first place.

Jess Wozniak jolted Belleville on a three-hitter, striking out four and walking one. Loser Russell Harris also notched six strikeouts, walked two in his second setback in five starts.

Garden City scored what proved to be the winning run in the bottom of the second after one out. Then Harris issued a walk, fired a wild pitch and gave up a single that led to his downfall.

The Rocks rallied for three big runs in the top of the seventh to break open a close game, and won a 6-2 decision. 'Bad script' Salem spoils coach's retirement

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Sports Editor

Norm Hoenes should fire the guy who wrote the script for his final meeting with Plymouth-Salem's ball club.

The scriptwriter had it all wrong. Instead of Glenn winning, and presenting the Rocket coach with a retirement present that he could cherish over the years, it was Salem that came up with the big hits and big plays to win a 6-2 decision over the veteran Rocket coach's team.

Hoenes has announced that he is retiring after the current school year, shutting the doors to a career that spans more than a quarter of a century.

"That's the way it goes. We had them, but blew it," says Hoenes, whose team will now play for third place in the Western Lakes Conference. "Sometimes you don't get what you want in life."

How true. How true. Weather permitting, Salem was to square off yesterday with Farmington Harrison, which won the other division, to decide who gets all of the marbles.

Against Glenn, Salem exploded for three runs in the top of the seventh to break open what was a close 3-2 game since the fourth inning. The rally routed Glenn starter, Chris Turner, who was replaced by Doug Kirkey. Turner who was charged with all six runs took the loss, while Chris Macis, who scattered five hits and gave up two runs in the bottom of the third, was the winner.

Macis also notched 11 strikeouts and walked only one in his second win over the defending conference champs this year.

Glenn's Nick James collected a pair of doubles off of Macis, but his teammates left him stranded on the base paths. Trevor Davey's single in the second accounted for the Rockets two runs.

"The story of this season has been one of stranding men on bases," noted Hoenes. "We just haven't been able to come up with those key hits when we need them."

But what really killed the Rockets and tossed them out of orbit was a heartbreaking bottom-of-the-seventh, 4-3, lost earlier in the week to Walled Lake Central. The Westlanders held a 3-2 advantage going into the

Rockets perfect in Lakes

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Sports Editor

With an overwhelming 102-35 victory over North Farmington on Thursday, Westland John Glenn picked up their fifth straight victory and brought the curtains down to a perfect Lakes Division track & field season.

The victory gave Glenn coach Jess Shough and his Rockets the divisional crown outright, but if they want the conference title, the Rockets then will have to beat the rest of the field, including a strong Farmington Harrison contingent, also champs of their (Western) division.

The two undefeated track teams will clash May 30 at Livonia Churchill, the site for the 1995 Western Lakes Conference championships.

"Our conference is set that the conference winner takes all," said Shough, who claimed his first divisional crown. "The dual meet record or past performances don't count at the conference championship."

Shough sees the approaching showdown with Harrison as "a duel between their speed and our depth."

Harrison has a "lot of speed and is a fraction ahead in the relays, but this match up should prove interesting. We do have some outstanding talent on both sides."

You can bet that the Rockets will be banking on sprinter Shamar Lott, who is coming off of a gold-winning performance at Redford Union.

Lott finished with the gold after running a 50.8 for the 400-meter dash. He is among the top candidates to win the event at the conference.

The Rockets also have an outstanding and talented athlete in Brent Washington. The University of Michigan bound senior qualified for the state finals in the long jump where he finished third with a leap of 21'10 1/2".

Washington, an All-Area running back who also starred for the Rockets in basketball, also qualified for state in the 100-meter dash where he finished seventh (10.9) but within the state-qualifying standards. Glenn also qualified Todd Peterson for the state. The 18-year-old senior placed sixth in the 110-meter hurdles, covering the distance in 15.0.

Earlier in the week, the junior varsity proved it boasted the best team in the Western Lakes by winning the conference invitational.

Glenn finished with 110 points for the first-place trophy. A far second was Walled Lake Western (73.5), followed by Walled Lake Central (70), Plymouth-Salem (63), Farmington (55), Plymouth-Canton (45), Farmington Harrison (42), North Farmington (25), Livonia Churchill (9), while Livonia Stevenson and Northville did not score any points.

Ex-star may haunt Robichaud

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Sports Editor

Will former Inkster High super-track star Charnell Lynn come back and haunt undefeated Robichaud?

Robichaud, on the verge of wrapping up the Suburban Athletic Conference women's track & field championship, will face the ex-Inkster High great who is presently competing for Willow Run.

Lynn, if you don't recall, almost single-handedly led the Vikings to the Class B state title a year ago after picking up three gold medals. She moved to Ypsilanti at the beginning of the school year.

"We all know that she (Lynn) is an excellent athlete," said Robichaud coach Francis McCauley, "and she is going to get more than her share of medals at the SAC meet. What she does obviously is going to have a major impact on the final standings."

"But I feel we still have enough depth to win it all."

The SAC championship was to be decided last night at Oak Park. Robichaud and Rouge, with identical 5-0 record - their meet was cancelled because of an electrical storm - are the frontrunners.

Channell Lynn

Robichaud's Tamika Craig will have an opportunity to avenge her loss to Lynn at the Class B regional championships at Ypsilanti Lincoln on Saturday. Craig battled Lynn right to the wire in the 400-meter dash, finishing second to the defending state champ, who posted a 58.8 to win the gold.

Craig's 1:01.2 gave her the silver.

Robichaud did receive a gold-medal performance from its 1,600-meter team as Andrea McGrew, Craig, Juanita McGrew and Lorrie Alverson ran a 4:13.5 to win the event.

The Bulldogs however finished third in the field of 16 area teams.

District playoff

Rockets square off against Dearborn in 1st round at Garden City

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Sports Editor

Westland John Glenn, the defending but hurting defending Class A district baseball champ, will meet Dearborn in the first round of the district playoffs scheduled for May 30 at Garden City. The game is scheduled for 4 p.m. at GC Municipal Park. "There are five teams in this district and three drew byes," noted Glenn coach Norm Hoenes, who said he is retiring after the current season. "Guess who didn't get the bye."

That's right, Glenn. If Glenn should manage to get past Dearborn in the first round, the Rockets will run up against the hosts, Garden City. The semifinals are scheduled for 10 a.m. on June 3. In the other bracket, it will be Redford, nee Detroit, Catholic Central against Detroit Cody. That game is scheduled by 12:30 p.m. The championship will be decided at 3 p.m. on June 3. In the meantime, local teams - Romulus, Belleville, and Wayne Memorial - will join Ann Arbor Huron and Ypsilanti at Ypsilanti to compete for a Class A district title and the right to be represented in the Class A regionals. However, the pairing for the Ypsilanti district was to be held on Tuesday, too late to get into this week's edition. Wayne received an exceptional pitching performance from pitcher Shannon Green who shut out Lincoln Park 6-0 last week to snap a three-game losing streak. Green, who is sporting a 1.69 earned run average, struck out nine and walked three in twirling a five-hitter.

Wayne jumped on loser Mike Jamiel, who got 11 strikeouts, for single runs in the first and seventh innings and also tilted the board for three runs in the fifth inning.

In that fifth, Jamiel hit Aaron Cagnon and Clark Boston, the latter with two strikes on him, to put runners on first and second. Then he gave up a double to Green and Brian Johnson also drilled a two-bagger to left center, driving home the third run in the inning.

However, Southgate Anderson and Ken Marsee were just too much got the Zebras and Al tended Wayne Memorial's Senior Prom, also scheduled for last Friday.

Lewis, a junior who was a standout in football and basketball, tied the school record in winning the 100-meter dash in 10.7. He also captured a gold in the long jump competition with a 22'4 3/4" performance.

"If Nate continues to improve, and I don't see any reason why he shouldn't, he could possibly erase Garrade Pettus' record."

The legendary Pettus is noted for high jumping 6'8" and also breaking the 23-foot barrier in the long jump.

Belleville also earned a gold medal when Michia Coats successfully negotiated 6'3", one of three Tigers who qualified in that event for the state finals. The other two - Erik Szyndlar, who also jumped 6'3" but finished second because he had more misses, and teammate Eric Summers, who finished at 6'1" and was tied for third also will be making the trip to Saginaw High School, site of the June 3 state finals. Belleville also qualified two relays - both runners-up. Ian Gold, Greg Whitmore, Joe Manuel and Lewis teamed up for a 44.3 in the 400-meter relay which gave the Tigers the silver medal. They lost to Detroit Cody, which grabbed the gold (43.2).

Gold, Coats, Alfonso Garner plus Lewis finished second to arch-rival, Wayne Memorial, in the race for the gold in the 800-meter relay. The Tigers were clocked in 1:31.1. In winning the event, Wayne Memorial coach Floyd Carter put a lineup that included Ken Riley, Richard Bulford, Dwayne Jackson and Richard Johnson, which won the gold 800 in 1:30.3.

Other Belleville state qualifiers include Gold, in the 100-meters (10.9) where he finished fifth, and the 200-meters (22.5), good enough for a fourth-place finish.

Although he finished ninth in the 3,200 run, Belleville's Brian Mockeridge also qualified for the state with a 9:43.5 run, well within the state-qualifying standards. Pioneer senior, Todd Snyder, who toured the 3,200 in 9:16.6, was awarded the gold medal.

Tuesday night, Belleville also went after its second-straight Mega Conference Red Division championship. The Tigers traveled to Monroe where the hosts, joined by Wayne Memorial and Dearborn, may have other plans for the 1995 championship.

In the meantime, Wayne came away satisfied that it has left its mark on a track season that wasn't supposed to happen for the Zebras and coach Carter.

Placed in jeopardy because of a Pay-to-Play policy imposed by the school board because of financial problems, Carter managed to rally students to come out for the team which is now a serious contender for the conference title.

Wayne received a superlative effort from senior Ken Riley, one of the premier hurdlers in the area.

Riley won a gold in the 110-meter hurdles, clearing the obstacles in 14.1. However, in the prelims of the event, Riley posted the best time in the state when he crossed the finish line in 13.9.

He came back with his best time this year in winning the 300-meter hurdles. He turned in with a 38.4 for the event.

"He (Ken) was outstanding," said Carter. "He is in a class by himself."

Riley collected his third gold for the afternoon after leading off Wayne's winning 800-meter relay.

Wayne also qualified Richard Johnson in the 400-meter dash after he finished second (51.0) behind regional champ, Glenn's Shamar Lott, who led the field across the finish line with a 50.8.

Also, Wayne just missed qualifying its 1,600-meter relay team which was a mere four-tenth of a second off the state-qualifying standard. Riley again led off the relay with a 49-second split, followed by Dwayne Jackson, Jason Blanks and Richard Johnson, who were clocked in 3:27.

The 400-meter relay with Stan Stevenson, Jackson, Jarin Bradley and Bulford also finished third (45.0), but the four-some didn't qualify.

"I am proud at the way our team performed at the regional," Carter said. "It has been an excellent season, ironically, in a season that we almost cancelled because of the lack of participation and funds."

Romulus runners sport perfect record

Romulus humiliated Highland Park 108-20 for its seventh-straight victory as coach Norbert Glover's thinclads swept all of the 17 events.

"Highland Park usually has a fine track program, but obviously they are having their problems this year," Glover said.

Glenn also had an easy week, turning back Livonia Stevenson 101-39. It was coach Jess Shough and the Rockets' fourth straight conference and seventh consecutive overall win of the campaign.

Against Stevenson, Glenn's Brent Washington had a personal best performance in the long jump as he soared 21'10 1/2" for the win. Also, in the pole vault, Eric Davey cleared 12 feet, also a personal season best.

The Westlanders won four of five relays.

Glenn also won the 800-meter run as Jason Olewnik was clocked in 2:05.1.

At the Jackson Northwest Invitational, Glenn finished third in a field of some 11 teams. Charlotte won the invtational crown with 92 points, followed by Portage Central (66), John Glenn (64), Belleville (58) and Battle Creek Central (56).

Shough said the Rockets had a shot at the runnerup trophy, but a disqualification in the 1,600-meter relay destroyed the chance.

"If we had scored in that event, we could have picked up the runners-up trophy," the Rocket coach said.

Glenn did win three events. The Rockets won the long jump relays with Brent Washington, Jason Crosby and Todd Peterson with a total of 58'10 1/2". Washington's 21'8" was the best performance in the event.

Shough's 3,200 relay team made up of Joe Wojtowicz, Chris Gillen, Jason Crosby and Jason Olewnick returned home with the gold thanks to a 8:29.5 effort.

The Rockets' shuttle hurdle relay also was first with Jim Koch, Peterson, Jason Baker and Matt Churches (1:03.6).

Glenn's pole vault relay team of Eric Davey (12') and Jason Baker (11') finished with 23 feet which was good enough for third place. Also third was Glenn's middle distance relay team of Olewnick, Shannon Lott, Peterson and Wojtowicz, who also finished third in 1:35.6.

fatal seventh when losing pitcher Jerry Farrar, who worked 6 2/3 innings, faltered. He allowed men to reach bases after one out via a pair of walks and a single.

Glenn took a 3-2 lead in the fourth when James singled, moved to second when Robertson's grounder was bobbled. Then, Farrar walked to load the bases, bringing Tim Reeves to the plate.

Reeves hit a shot to the outfield, good for a single, but when the outfielder mishandled the ball, all three Rocket runners scored.

Belleville also bid Hoenes good-bye on Saturday. The Tigers split a doubleheader, winning a 11-inning marathon in the opener, 5-4, but losing the nightcap, 6-4.

Tigers

Belleville threatened a couple of times. In the first, Matt Davenport, after getting a base hit, eventually was erased at the plate and, in the fifth, with bases-loaded, the Tigers somehow forgot the name of the game is to score.

Eric Harrison got aboard on an infield miscue, then Harris's sacrifice bunt was misplayed, putting runners on first and second. Jacob Reeder also put down a bunt that wound up as an error.

With bases loaded, Wozniak settled down and ended the threat on a pop up, a force at home and a grounder to second that became an easy putout.

Belleville bid retiring Glenn coach Norm Hoenes

"good-bye" by splitting a doubleheader in their nonleague encounter on Saturday. Belleville won the opener 5-4 as Komaromi chalked up the victory and Harris contributed two hits.

Glenn's Tye Golden digested the loss.

Glenn won the nightcap, 6-4. Reeder was charged with the loss. Matt Davenport collected a double and a pair of singles in four at-bats.

100 future stars shine in inaugural 3-on-3

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Sports Editor

If the inaugural 3-on-3 Michigan Community Newspapers - Wayne Memorial Hoopsarama is any indication of what is in store in the future for area basketball, the future is bright and promising.

There's definitely an abundance of talent.

More than 100 boys and girls, ages 8 through 15, showed up on May 13 to participate in the 3-on-3 basketball competitions, staged all day at Wayne Memorial High School.

"This is great," said Wayne coach Chuck Henry who, along with his varsity team members, staged the tournament. "I did not believe that we would have this big of a turnout for a first tournament. Next year, this thing could double in size."

Dwayne Johnson, who works for the government and who brought his entire family to watch son, Phil, play agreed. "It's well run and good competition," said Johnson. "It's something the area needed for a long time."

Johnson's eight-year-old son, Benjamin, nodded. However, he was not in uniform. He was sporting a cast over his left leg and was sitting in the bleachers to cheer on "his big brother."

Benjamin broke his knee cap a couple of weeks ago - you guessed it - playing basketball, and the second-grade Edison pupil said he would like to "play next year when his leg gets well again."

And who is his favorite basketball star? No contest - it's his big brother, then, of course, Michael Jordan.

Johnson's son was on a team that included Ryan Kosinski, 10; Jeff Tamaroglio, 11, and Danny Chirrewa, who finished second-best in their age group after losing by a point in the championship round.

More than 60 percent of the teams were out of Westland, a credit to the Westland Youth Athletic Association which sponsors junior football, basketball and baseball programs.

Ryan is a product of the WYAA and, the diminutive cager, who's almost four-feet, can shoot, dribble and pass with the best of them. In fact, he plays as if he was a born basketball player.

"He's out there shooting baskets all the time," said Ryan's mother. "I don't know how he does it. But he is good, isn't he?"

One of the disappointments of the initial 3-on-3 was the lack of girls teams. There were less than eight entered, however, the quality of the players as exemplified by Stephanie Crews was outstanding.

Crews is one of two daughters of former Wayne Memorial standout, Bill Crews, who competed in the tournament.

Bill Crews was an All-State State baseball player who also starred in basketball and football at Wayne High. He was on the Wayne team that included such phenomenal talent as Pat Sheridan, of Detroit Tigers and Kansas City fame, which reached the Class A state finals before losing a 2-1 decision to Ferndale back in the early 1970's.

Stephanie has the basketball moves that already show she will be among the best in the area and will help Wayne...

"Excuse me, Mr. Mooradian, but Stephanie will be attending Westland John Glenn," said her father, who is now an employee of the Westland Department of Public Works. "We live in the Glenn attendance area."

"You know she can shoot from three-point range like nobody I've ever seen," Crews added.

Thomason who dropped a 4-1 decision to their Mega Conference, Red Division rivals.

Marsee lost his bid for a shutout in the bottom of the seventh when Jeff Temple got to him for a single. Cagnon moved to second when Cagnon was struck by a wild pitch and Boston's fielder's choice advanced the runners to first and third. Marsee's second wild pitch of the inning scored the Zebras' lone run.

Temple came up with the defensive gem of the game when he grabbed a fly ball to right with a runner on third. That runner decided to break for home and Temple fired a strike, cutting down the runner at the plate.

Wayne coach Jim Chronowski wraps up the regular season with a pair of games. The veteran coach took his troops to Monroe, which is atop of the conference standings, on Monday then travelled to Belleville yesterday. Belleville (see related story on front sports page) remains in the thick of the title race and needs to win its final three in order to catch Monroe.

Stephanie's team were Sarah Bostwick, Amy Henry and Margie Henry, who also finished runner-up in their division.

William Hawley, former Wayne Memorial athletic director and presently an assistant principal at the high school, also said he liked what he saw.

"These kids are from all over - from Canton, Romulus, Wayne, Belleville and Westland - and you can see that they like the competition. If more tournaments like these can be organized and the accent remains on sportsmanship, then the future of sports is secured."

"We need to get more kids involved in programs like this. It's positive. Teaches values and virtues of sportsmanship and competition."

Some of the 100 future basketball stars who showed up for the first 3-on-3 junior hoops-arama battle it out for honors. The participants - and their parents - said they would like to see the event become an annual one. The inaugural 3-on-3 was cosponsored by Michigan Community Newspapers and Wayne Memorial's varsity hoopsters. MCN photo by Kimberly Woloskie

Going for the Gold

Tate to defend Detroit River hydroplane championship cup

By MARGO DEWEY
MCN News Editor

He's calm, cool and collected in person. But, get Mark Tate on the water, and he can kick up a wave beyond control for his competitors.

The Wayne resident is headed to defend his title in the 1995 APBA Gold Cup hydroplane race on the Detroit River June 1-4.

"This is a sport where the drivers are racing for the love of the sport, it sure isn't the money," said Tate. "The beauty of this sport is in the eye of the beholder and fans have a different view of the sport than the drivers, but either way the sport is truly exciting."

Another crowd of 500,000 fans is expected to line Belle Isle and the shoreline to see the boats run for the 80th consecutive time on the Detroit River 2 1/2-mile oval.

At least 10 unlimited hydroplanes, 20 Grand Prix hydroplanes, 20 plus unlimited lights and a dozen vintage boats will give the river a breathtaking sight and a loud roar when the boats start qualifying May 31.

Preparing for this kind of competition takes a year of preparation for a race team, according to Tate.

"Basically the team prepares for our race all year round," Tate said. "There are several full-time employees who do nothing but work on the boat. My main preparation for the race begins tomorrow (May 16) when I leave for Seattle. I will be out there for week as a test session."

"I will utilize what the crew has done to the boat over the winter months. I'll look at what changes they have made and try to put those in perspective as to how they are going to work on the boat, and then we'll go out and test the changes to see if they work."

Before a competition, Mark Tate said he leaves everyone behind and finds some quiet time to picture how the race will turn out. MCN Special Photo

Another test site for Tate is Pasco, Wash. on the Columbia River. Just how fast can his hydroplane boat fly on the water?

"I think if someone actually set an unlimited run on it which is called a 'kilo run', one kilometer or the fastest you can go in a straight line, I think these boats are capable of going 240 to 250 mph," Tate said. "But, in actual racing conditions for a competition we keep the speeds down to around 200 mph."

Tate's love for powerboating began when he was only 13 years old. The 1978 John Glenn graduate said he used to watch boat races, and he knew even as a youngster that he wanted to race professionally one day.

Tate is considered one of the top hydroplane drivers in the world. In 1991 he broke three world records.

While competing in Seattle, the Wayne resident averaged 147.8 mph in the two-mile competitive lap race and averaged 144.7 mph during the 10-mile competitive lap race.

"My worst race was probably in Seattle," Tate said. "That's where most of the other guys live that compete. I've never been able to win in Seattle. I've been dominated throughout the preliminary heats the last three years. It comes down to the final, and we always have a problem."

"Last year we had a motor problem. Two years ago we had a bad wreck. The year prior to late I was leaking going into corners three and four. I hit a wake, and the boat pitched. I went from first to last and worked my way back to second place."

Tate said he has had the most success in Detroit. Does this professional get nervous anymore the day of the big competition?

"No, not anymore," said Tate. "Basically prior to a race I will separate myself from everyone. I have my own 53 footer where I have my own quarters. I will pre-plan the race in my head."

"I'll start thinking about who I'm going to race, what I feel they are going to do and what I need to do to prepare for that. I'll just start getting into a mental structure of the race."

Tate and his wife, Sandy, have a son, Andrew, who tries to never miss his father's races. What advice would Tate give to his son if he decides to get behind the wheel of a hydroplane one day?

"I think if he was racing, I would have more of a team kind of concept for him," said Tate. "I would let him determine how he wants to project his image. If he volunteers and asks me a question, I would then give him some guidance."

"I would rather see him make his own direction. I feel if I interface and give him direction, it would be an added pressure."

Tate said he still enjoys taking part in the competition aspect of boating.

"I still enjoy it very much," Tate said. "This time of the year it's pretty exciting because it's all fresh and new. I still enjoy the traveling by the beginning of the year. At the end of the year I'm a little burned out with traveling. But, as long as I enjoy it, I'll still keep racing."

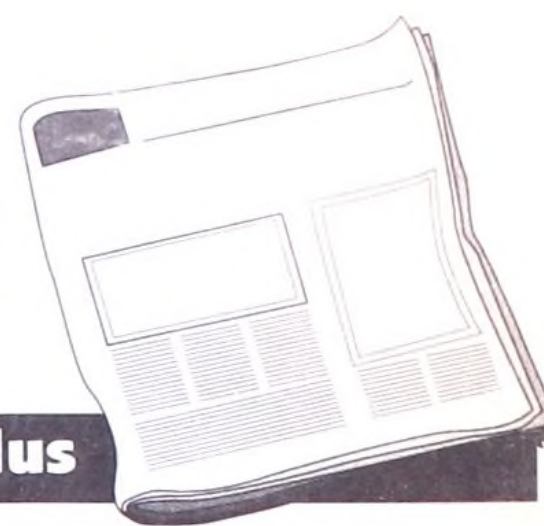

Tickets for the Detroit River race are available for 15 viewing locations along the Jefferson Avenue side of the Detroit River. For ticket information call the Thunderfest office at 313-259-7760 or 1-800-359-7760.

Wayne resident Mark Tate said when most people go on vacation they go up north. When he and his family go on vacation, they head to the boat races. MCN Special Photo

Precision team headlines Willow Run air show

The precision flying of the U.S. Navy Blue Angles jet demonstration team headline the cast of aerobatic performers and high-tech ground activities at the 1995 Air Michigan - Wayne County Air Show, June 3 and 4 at Willow Run Airport.

Sleek blue and gold F/A-18 Hornet fighter attach planes will be flown by the Blue Angles during their daily one hour demonstration.

The presentation includes graceful, four-plane "Diamond" maneuvers and thrilling head-on high performance maneuvers performed by the two "solo" pilots. All six jets fly together, just 36 inches apart, in their trademark "Delta" formation. The Blue Angles have flown for more than 262 million spectators throughout the world, since their installation in 1946.

The Blues, who will fly 38 air shows at 22 locations in the United States and Canada during 1995, have scheduled the Detroit show for one of their early stops.

Wayne County Executive Edward H. McNamara said, "The Blue Angles always draw large crowds to Willow Run Airport and we are very excited that they have selected Wayne County to be a part of their 1995 tour."

"So Proudly We Hail" is the theme for the Air Show and will commemorate the 50th anniversary of World War II.

A world class cast of performers will fill the skies at Air Michigan, with the U.S. Army precision parachute team; the Sierra Aces three ship aerobatic team; wing-walking with daredevil Teresa Stokes; World Aerobatic Champion Gene Soucy's - "Showcat" precision aerobatics; Ian Groom's Russian built SU-31.

The festival of activities planned on the ground makes the Air Show a perfect day-long outing for the entire family. Entertainment and exhibits include flight simulators; static aircraft - WWII, military, home built, commercial, sport and modelers; educational displays; souvenir flea market; and food.

Tickets will also be on sale at all Ticketmaster locations. Advance general admission tickets through June 2, are available at $9 for adults and $6 for children ages 6-11. At the gate, tickets are $12 for adults and $9 for children. Reserve box seats are $15.

Finnish guests

Rotary members play host to European visitors

Aurinko Paistaa, vettä sataa, taitaa tulla kesa

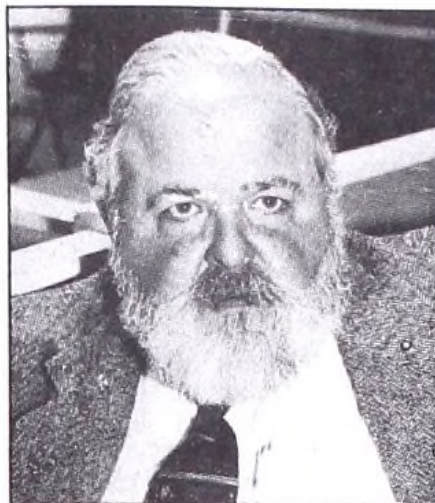

When the five visitors from Finland read through the Finnish calendar provided by the writer, they were pleased to see proverbs and sayings from their homeland.

"Sun is shining, rain is falling, summer must be coming," said the quote from the June page.

Last Tuesday, the Rotary Club of Belleville hosted a reception for Finnish team leader Ralf Westernen, a business consultant; Janne Haiminen, a development engineer; Anki Kivela, an ombudsman; Sanna Latva, an automation engineer, and Ritva Toivonen, a researcher.

The five arrived on April 29 and toured Ontario sites before visiting the downriver area, Dearborn and Blissfield.

Rotarian Harlan Whichello accompanied the group as they visited the Romulus City Hall, Wayne Public Greenhouse, Willow Run Farms hydroponic garden, the Fermi nuclear energy plant and the Ford Motor

Harlan Whichello

Co. Michigan Truck Plant.

They attended vocational day in Romulus and later toured the state capitol. Before they end their trip, the five guests will visit the Detroit Institute of Arts, be entertained at an Afro-American ethnic supper and attend a cook-out.

Among the most memorable sites visited on their American tour, according to Anki Kivela, was the hydroponic greenhouse and the Fermi nuclear energy plant.

Kivela, who is currently an ombudsman for the Aland Shipowners' Association, is a graduate of Turku Navigational College and is a former sea captain.

She admitted to "breaking new ground" in her career at sea, and noted that she found herself more accepted at sea in her profession than she did in a land post.

Kivela lives in the Aland Islands, an autonomous province situated between Finland and Sweden.

She expressed surprise that the writer, who is of Finnish origin, could not speak the language, and seemed somewhat puzzled that, at one time, teaching one's native language to second- and third-generation family members was not encouraged.

Team leader Ralf Westernen noted that his Rotary group had hosted visitors in the past from the U.S. and Australia.

Westernen, who has been a member of the Meri-Naantali Rotary Club since 1981, resides in Turku on the southwestern coast of Finland.

Janne Haiminen resides in Pori on the west coast of Finland, approximately 250 kilometers from the capital, Helsinki.

Ritva Toivonen also resides in Turku and Sanna Latva is a resident of Eurojoki, located on the west coast of Finland.

At the May 16 reception in Belleville, gifts were presented to the five guests from Sumpter Township Supervisor Marvin Banotai, Van Buren Township Supervisor David Jakokes, Belleville Mayor Glenn Silvenis and Belleville Area Chamber of Commerce President Joan Dyer-Zinner. Rotarian Barbara Trombetta also presented gifts to the visitors.

Chairman of the Rotary Foundation Group Study Exchange Committee is Bob Gallagher, vice chairman is Kris Atwood and secretary is Jerald Krause. Finance chair is Harlan Whichello. Serving as consultants are Murray Elder, John Mueller and Max Stewart.

Nuottia olisi iittanyt vaan sanat loppu kesken, meaning "I still had notes left, but I ran out of words."

Teams exchange visits around world each year

Guests from many countries have visited the Belleville-Romulus area through the efforts of the local Rotary Clubs.

Since 1979, the Belleville Rotary Club has been involved in the district international Group Study Exchange (GSE) program. During this time, more than 15,000 non-Rotarians have been sent to countries other than their own to learn about the economic, social and governmental sides of the countries they visit, according to Don Juchartz, chairman of the Belleville Rotary Club Foundation Committee.

"All of this is pointed toward Rotary's international objective of world peace through understanding," Juchartz said. "Team members travel, at Rotary expense, to live with Rotarians in their homes for a four- to six-week period during which they are daily exposed to all that their hosts can show them about their own country. They also exposed to the vocational counterparts so they can have a comparison between the ways their vocation is practiced and that of another country.

"It is almost impossible not to gain an insight, an understanding and an empathy with the peoples of another country after you have lived with them and experienced their hospitality in a non-judgmental role. To this end, this program has done more than any other people-to-people program in the world to bring understanding and world peace," he said.

During the 1994-95 Rotary year, more than 400 GST teams are traveling throughout the world. In 1995-96, there will be 500 teams engaged in this program, all financed by Rotary Clubs throughout the world, according to Juchartz who noted that this program is the largest of its kind, public or private, in the world.

Strawberry Festival plans in place for event

By CHERYL VATCHER
MCN Special Writer

With just three weeks remaining before the event, the National Strawberry Festival Committee is working hard to prepare for the June 16 to 18 festival.

Executive Director Angela Power is happy to be working on her third festival.

"I enjoy doing things in the community," she said.

There will be a circus and different church activities as before, and the Belleville Music Committee will sponsor music in the downtown area. Crafts and foods will be at the Belleville United Presbyterian Church and Trinity Episcopal Church.

All of Main Street will be filled with vendors, she said.

"For the past two years, Main Street has been blocked off up to Five Points," Power said. "St. Anthony's Church also will have a beer tent, and a classic car show."

One change that will take place this year is that the Wayne County Fair will not have a Demolition Derby during the festival.

The annual run/walk will be moved up a week before the festival.

One of the other activities on Main Street will be the Gold Wings Motorcycle Group, exhibiting their motorcycles with values of more than $10,000.

On Friday, there will be a National Strawberry Queen pageant at the Belleville High School auditorium, and on Saturday, there will be a parade on Main Street along with activities for children.

To organize this event, Power and her board members meet at least once a month. Closer to the festival, they meet more frequently.

"It's not my show. The board members donate so much time to this," Power said.

"After a festival is completed, we go through it to see what needs to be changed," she said.

Among the new sponsors this year is Coca Cola Distributors.

"We are excited to have them. Our public relations director Debra Power (the daughter of the director) got them to join us. They are high here in the community," Angela Power said.

Also new is the GM Powertrain Plant in Ypsilanti and L&W Engineering in Van Buren Township.

Other sponsors are Big Boy, Budweiser, Beyer Hospital, Wayne County Community College, NBD, EQ, the Environmental Quality Company, Masonic Lodge, Rotary Club, Hospice of Southeastern Michigan, Huron Valley Conservation Association, Michigan Humane Society, Western Wayne Quilting Guild, Washenaw Community College and radio station WSDS.

The festival is a fund raiser for most of the vendors.

"A lot of the churches and non-profit organizations count on this event to raise money for their activities throughout the year. So, a good turnout with good weather really helps these people," Power said.

This year the festival hopes to attract between 100,000 and 125,000 visitors.

Another attraction is the retired greyhounds from Florida, which are being displayed by Retired Greyhounds as Pets, an organization which hopes to provide new homes to former racing dogs.

Angela Power also said that businesses along Main Street can donate space to non-profit organizations.

Golden Knights jump into air show spotlight

The U.S. Army Golden Knights precision parachute team will jump into Air Michigan at the Wayne County Air Show, June 3 and 4 at Willow Run Airport.

The forerunner to the team, the Strategic Army Corps Sport Parachute Team was formed in 1959 at Fort Bragg, N.C. The team was later given its official nickname, the Golden Knights, and had performed more than 6,300 aerial demonstrations in all 50 states and 42 countries.

The Golden Knights consist of two demonstration teams; the Black and Gold, which travel to air shows and special events around the world. The Black Team, which is performing at Air Michigan, is directed by Team Leader SFC Ken Brown and Assistant Team Leader, SFC Paul Raspino. Other members of the Team include SFC Rob Coles; SFC Joe Guenther; SFC Shane Hollar; Sgt. Scott Campbell; Sgt. Mark Gehring; Sgt. Darrin Grim; Sgt. Matt Husted; Sgt. J.J. Little; SGT Chris Talbert; Sgt. Kris Ward; Cpl. Laurel Eller; Cpl. Harley Mast; and SPC Jason Migliore.

These specially trained airborne soldiers use a rectangular-shaped, highly maneuverable parachute called a ram-air which can reach a forward airspeed of 22 mph. The jumper controls his flight with steering lines as he prepares for a soft landing on the cross hair target at show center.

The average Golden Knight is 26 years old, has more than 1,200 parachute jumps and is proficient in at least one of more than 250 Army occupational specialties. The collective team has more than 29,000 parachute jumps to their credit, and has won 12 world team titles.

Tickets are available now by Mail Order through the Air Show Box Office, or at Willow Run Airport starting May 22. Tickets will also be available at all Ticketmaster locations.

Memories of past sought for articles

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
MCN Managing Editor

Some 120 years ago, Van Buren Township conducted its official business in private homes, and important documents were often signed at the kitchen tables of its officials.

In 1875, William E. Warner was township supervisor, William A. Haak was clerk and John Hope was treasurer.

Caleb Barlow served as justice of the peace and constables were Andrew Smith, John Zibbell, Jacob Stofflet and Robert McKinstry.

Jacob Post was highway commissioner and Alexander Robbe was drain commissioner. Franklin Robbe served as superintendent of schools and George Smock was school inspector.

Bills were issued and signed in the treasurer's kitchen and officials regularly met in the homes of Warner and Haak before the spring 1875 election when township voters approved $1,500 for the building of a one-story brick building.

A special election was conducted in September of the same year, which allowed the Grange Society to pay for a second story to be added to the partially constructed building.

The township hall, with its second story, was completed in November of 1875, and is recognized by the Michigan Historical Society as a Michigan Landmark.

Currently, the government of Van Buren Township is housed at 46425 Tyler Road, west of Belleville Road, in a facility built in 1964.

Renovations are being planned for the building, and its usage may change after the repairs are completed.

Editor's note: Residents who have memories of the old township hall may send them to the Enterprise, 114 Fourth St., Belleville, Mich. 48111.

Vacation days

Some like cruises, others prefer nearby venues

By RACHAEL LEWIS
MCN Special Writer

Summer is the time when the weather is warm, the kids are off from school and everyone is thinking of vacations.

When we quizzed people about their choices of vacation spots, we found there were "different strokes for different folks" -- choice made by singles, young families and senior citizens were varied.

The most popular place for single people and married couples with no children is Mexico.

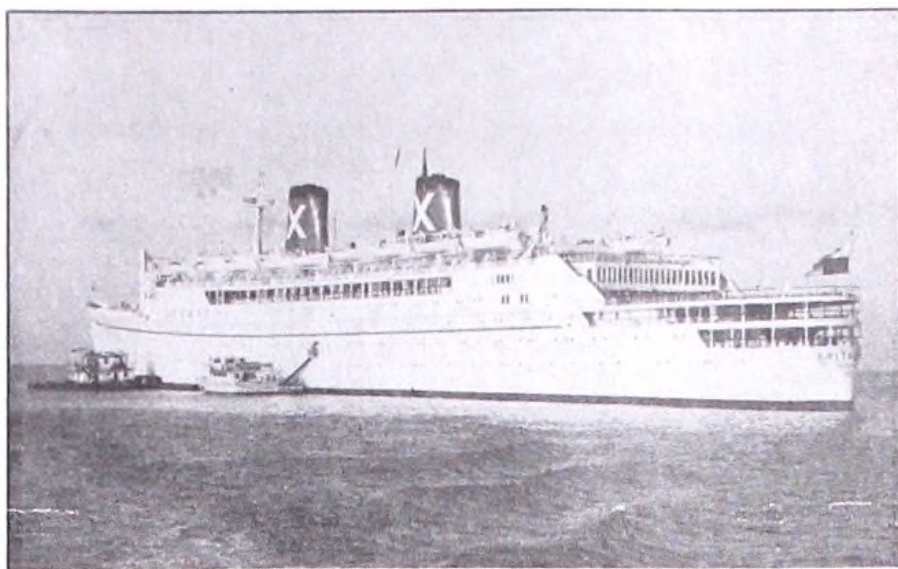

"Cancun, Mexico, and Florida are the most popular vacation places for young people," said Bea Easton of Adventure Travel in Belleville.

"The universal favorite for families is Disney World in Florida and Disney Land in California," said Easton. "Children of all ages seem to really enjoy the magic of Walt Disney's creations."

A cruise on the "Big Red Boat" coupled with a Disney visit is also popular with families, she said.

For the mature traveler, cruises, packaged tours and Las Vegas trips are the most popular vacations, Easton said.

"Mature travelers often do their traveling in the winter and fall and stay home in the summer," she said.

A cruise ship (above) prepares to embark on a tour of the western Caribbean. For those who don't want to take a lengthy summer trip, Sumpter Senior Director Suzanne Keenan (right) checks up on day trips to nearby states and Ontario.

"Cancun, with its long beaches and tropical climate" was named as the most popular destination for singles, said Bridget Kelly of Sun Coast Travel in Wayne.

"Families go to the Disney parks and mature people choose cruises - particularly Alaskan cruises," said Kelly.

For short trips, Las Vegas, Toronto and Chicago are popular with Michigan vacationers, she said.

"Greece and Ireland are popular with those who travel abroad," she said.

Travel agents note that there seems to be a "pent-up demand" for vacations that were put off during past financial downturns. Now, that the economy has taken a positive turn, people seem ready to plan their dream vacations.

In the summer months, when the Michigan weather is pleasant, many senior citizens opt for short trips, according to Suzanne Keenan, Sumpter Senior director.

"Popular day trips for seniors are the fisheries in Canada. McLean Brothers Fisheries in Ontario is one of the very popular day trips as well as the casino in Windsor," said Keenan. "Shipshewana, Ind., is also a popular destination."

Trips for the seniors have included visits to the Detroit Race Course, Jackson Space Center, Lansing, the Holland Tulip Festival and one-day boat cruises.

Seniors in Van Buren Township enjoy similar trips, according to Linda Combs, September Days director.

"Many of our members have just returned from spending the winter in Florida, so they are interested in day trips. They enjoy visiting the Windsor Casino, bingo halls, the Detroit Race Course as well as trips to the Cornwell Dinner Theatre in Marshall," she said.

Whether the trip is as near as the closest bingo hall or on the other side of the globe, there seems to be a perfect vacation spot for everyone this summer - young, old or in-between.

Golden years

Bellefonte couple celebrate 60 years

By MARGO DEWEY
News Editor

It takes a lot of communication, respect and most of all love to sustain a marriage for 60 years. Just ask former Wayne business owners Ovid and Beatrice Riggs of Riggs Wholesale.

The happy couple celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary in Jupiter, Fla. "We enjoyed a nice dinner at Charlie's Crab," said Ovid Riggs. "Guests that joined us included our daughter Janice, friend Warren Hutchinson, Dr. John Stopa and his wife Catherine and their daughter Chichi."

Call it fate or a chance meeting that was meant to be, the Riggs met one another on a rainy night in Bellefonte in 1935.

"I had a cousin who had an ice cream store in Bellefonte," said Ovid Riggs. "I walked in and sat with my cousin. I asked who that girl was sitting across the room. My cousin told me 'You couldn't touch her with a 10-foot pole.' I went over and asked her if she would like to go for a ride. She said 'Yes.'"

And, the rest is history. The secret to a long lasting marriage is simple, according to Ovid Riggs.

"You have to work together and play together," he said.

Ovid Riggs is a 1925 Wayne High graduate. His wife is a 1925 Bellefonte High graduate.

The Riggs have strong roots in the Wayne community. It was 1937 when Ovid Riggs decided to start his own business by opening Riggs Wholesale on Michigan Avenue in Wayne.

Ovid and Beatrice Riggs

"I was a former bookkeeper and accountant for a number of years when my doctor told me I shouldn't sit behind a desk so long," said Ovid Riggs. "I started with a truck picking up candy for various vendors. Then, I thought about starting a candy business of my own.

The happy couple now reside in Beatrice Riggs' home where she grew up in Bellefonte. The house is nearly 100 years old.

"We're looking forward to celebrating many more anniversaries in the future," said Ovid Riggs.

John Berry to appear in Sumpter

John Berry will appear in concert at 8 p.m. July 15 during the Sumpter Country Fest.

The Sumpter Township-sponsored festival will feature concert tickets for $15.50 and $10.50.

Berry began writing songs at age 17, and he cut his first independent albums before playing showcases and joining Liberty Records. His Southern country blues sound captures audiences, and his first two hit singles Kiss Me In The Car, and A Mind Of Her Own, were the beginning of his successful career.

Berry's latest single, Standing On The Edge Of Goodbye, has steadily climbed into a "Top 30" country hit, and like Berry's career, it is still climbing strong, according to the festival sponsors.

Berry's first two releases, Your Love Amazes Me, and What's In It For Me?, both jumped to number one upon release. With his strong passion for music and a handful of hits below his belt, Berry continues to grow both musically and in the world of hot country newcomers.

Tickets for this July 15 performance go on sale at $15.50 and $10.50. Tickets are available at all Ticketmaster Outlets, which include Harmony House, Hudson's and Wherehouse Records, or may be charged by phone at (810) 645-6666. Tickets can also be purchased at the Sumpter Township offices, which are located at 23480 Sumpter Road in Bellefonte 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Conservation Club obtains park

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
MCN Managing Editor

A small park in Willis is now the property of the Huron Valley Conservation Association (HVCA), and will soon be put to use as a meeting site and educational center.

For many years, the 80-member HVCA has hoped to obtain property for its functions, and an unexpected offer from the Willis Kiwanis Club made its dream a reality, according to President Ginger Bruder.

"The membership of the Willis Kiwanis Club has dwindled over the years, and when it no longer had 10 members, the group lost its charter," said Bruder. "When the group disbanded it had to dispose of its park, located off Meridian Street, and the club began to search for an organization which could take it over.

The HVCA was one of the clubs which made a bid for the 3.9 acre park, and, because of its youth-focused educational programs, it was chosen to receive title to the park property.

"The property has a 20-by-40-foot pavilion and picnic tables and benches, and will provide a good location for our Huron Valley Conservation Association Education Center," Bruder said.

"We'll use the site for club meetings and activities, particularly youth activities," the HVCA president said. "In the long-term, we'd like to build on the property so that we will have a site for our hunter safety classes, nature programs and boat safety classes. Currently, we have many members who are certified by the Department of Natural Resources to teach various safety classes, and we'd like to expand our education programs."

The HVCA president said the group is now forming committees to work on short-term and long-term programs for the newly obtained property.

Bruder said the club has taken another major step recently by obtaining a 501.3C status as a non-profit organization, which will allow tax-deductible contributions to be made to it.

"In the past, many individuals and organizations have inquired about making contributions to the HVCA and one of their first questions has been whether or not we have a non-profit status," Bruder said. "Now, we can give them a positive 'yes.'"

Salvation Army Administrative Assistant David Hudgens (seated right) is shown with his family as they are pondering thoughts of leaving Romulus. Hudgens family leaves Romulus for new Salvation Army position

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

Dave Hudgens will soon be packing his bags at the Romulus Salvation Army Rehabilitation Center to take on new challenges somewhere in the Midwest.

Hudgens, who has assisted in directing the area Salvation Army Thrift Stores for the past few years, will soon be taking on the commandship of another Army Adult Rehabilitation Center. He expects to be notified of the location of that center in the next week or so.

He and his wife, Peggy, were named Army Envoy trainees this past January, as a prelude to their expected promotions and transfers.

The Hudgens family farewell Sunday is slated for June 25 at the Romulus Army Chapel. They will open at their new location on July 3.

Hudgens admitted that his early business life was hardly Christ centered, as he worked in a Livonia restaurant supplying customers with more than just food and drinks.

"I'd supply them with drugs and women if they asked," Hudgens admitted.

All this continued until about 15 years ago, he said, when a charismatic Catholic priest Bill Krause entered his establishment and told him, "God told me to come here and tell you that He loves you!"

Hudgens feels it was his depraved reputation at the time that got God's attention.

"I walked quietly into a back room and began to ponder over what the priest had just said to me. And suddenly I began to feel that maybe despite all my sins, that God truly

I walked quietly into a back room and began to ponder over what the priest had just said to me.

- Dave Hudgens

did still love me," Hudgens said.

That brief encounter truly changed my life, Hudgens said, as well as the lives of my family. He admits that at first his wife, Peggy, and his mother, Helen, thought he was just going through another phase in his life.

Little at the time did they realize the change Hudgens was going through and that it would be a lasting one.

The Hudgens change to Christian endeavors first took them to Texas, where he worked for a time with the Kenneth Copeland ministries. But after a while, Hudgens felt that Copeland worked too heavily with the rich and near-famous.

Hudgens felt his ministry if he was to have one would deal more with those traveling in the dark side of life (an area he was strongly familiar with because of his past life cycle.)

Years later he came back to Michigan and sought to work as a cook to give him time for a future ministry.

"My wife saw an advertisement for a job as a cook in the newspaper and I was surprised when I called about it I kept getting the Salvation Army," he said.

Finally realizing that it was the Army which indeed needed a cook, Hudgens said, he responded and many miracles have occurred since then.

Hudgens served up a spiritual menu as well as food for over a year and a half at the Romulus ARC.

His actions with the men seeking treatment at the Goddard Road facility caught the eye of Commander Capt. Roger Senn and Hudgens was switched to program director and then in-take director.

Since then Hudgens has served as the ARC's administrative assistant and has worked closely with Senn in turning the thrift stores into thriving economic centers.

The thrift stores are the financial backbone of the rehabilitation centers throughout the nation.

Men enroll in the 90-day treatment program and often obtain jobs either with the Army or related agencies upon their graduation.

One Army worker currently employed at the Wayne Thrift Store admitted last Friday, "If it wasn't for the Army, I'd have died years ago!"

It is that change in lives that excites Hudgens.

"Working here in Romulus has been a good learning experience. It has balanced out my thoughts on ministry and I want to take the promise of God's miracles with me to wherever He leads me.

"I want to remind people God is still in the miracle business and I want to have a hand in those miracles," Hudgens said.
